A dispatch from a prominent member of the Democratic party in New York, received this evening, says the position of the World, in reference to the Democratic nominees, is wholly nonanthorized and a property of the World, in reference to the Democratic nominees, is wholly nonanthorized and a property of the same time expressing his M. Cullough s, opinion that it was for the interest of the Luited States that they should be expressing his M.

the World, in reference to the Democratic nominees, is wholly unanthorized, and a silly attempt to imitate the independence of the Hereld, and that the Wald is not an organ of the party.

Private letters state that Angust lielmont has just returned to New York from Utica, where he had a conference with Mr. Seymonr. The Democratic candidate expressed his surprise and mortification at the sudden panic of the New York World, and declared that, if the party is defeated in November, it will surprise him still more. He expressed great satisfaction at the gains made in the three great States, and thinks that the Hebrew and Catholic vote will throw them all against Grant, Mr. Seymonr asys that New York will go Democratic by fifteen thousand, basing his calculation on reports received by him from all parts of the State. It is all a mistake that he has enterrained a thought of relief the subment.

We have said that the prospect of our access in the Presidential election rests on the operation of four separate influes, combined with our own exertions: the ntmost, will be aided, first, by the onthe issues, thirdly, by the relaxation of onr adversaries, and, finally, by the im-possibility of colonization. Of the first and last of these influences we need say nothing. They are appreciated by all.
Of the other two. however, we perhaps may profitably say a word.

And first of the second. The elections of last Theeday were State elections, involving more or less, consequently, State issues or at least State considerations. In those elections, the issues of the Presidential election were presented to the voters not directly and simply, but indirectly and in complication with State isence. The presentation was inferential and confused. But the Presidential elecimplifying the issues as to present them | ately attached to him. | human clearly and distinctly, and present them | Mr. Bullitt was a son of Cuthbert Bulclearly and distinctly, and present them alone. It will shot out all issues but the real ones, and with these it will bring the rcters face to face. For this reason the result of the elections of Tuesday cannot fairly be accepted as foreshadowing the eenit of the I'residential election even in the same States This no candid man will deny. Thousands of Republican ill deny. Thousands of Republican oters, whole classes of them indeed, who did not particularly desire a change in State affairs, and accordingly voted with their party in the State elections or did not vote at all, do desire a change in national affairs or deem it inconsistent with their self-respect and with interests which they justly hold dear to support the Republican candidates for the Presidency and Vice Presidency, and hest type. No appreciative man ever met him without feeling the highest admira-tion of his noble and beautiful accordingly in the Presidential election will not vote with their party but against it.

fulfilled the best men's ideas of what a tof such voters we need mention only the Catholics and the Hebrews. And the simple mention of these is enought o strike terror to the hearts of our adversaries, or would be, if they were not drunk with their empty victory. Let them by all means go on with their revel. We would not interrupt it if we could. But this hy the way.

The other day, it may be remembered. Mr. Bu litt was not an old man, but he determined the other day, it may be remembered, we quoted the New-York Times as saying that a Republican paper, whose name the Times does not give, expresses the opinon that the Catholic vote will be nearly worthy family of children, and lid against Grant and Colfax, holding em lucky if they should get fitty thonsand of the million of Catholic voters in the voting States, and adding that the Hebrew vote will be almost wholy thrown against the same ticket. And the Times is reame ticket. And the Times is rereducing this opinion deplores the fact ut does not deny it. On the contrary, it hereby admits it. But where does this dmission leave Grant and Colfax? Emherically only in the colfax? Emphatically out in the cold. The Republi-can Catholics and Hebrews of Pennsyl-vania, Ohio, and Indiana, feeling no especial nostinary to the supportion of the continuation of their respective States, unquestionably voted with their party in the continuation of th pecial hostility to the l'epublican Statetest of Thesasy of state at nominal state of the man and the state of the sagainst Grant and Colfax is November, simple assertion, and one of the fals seymon and Blair will carry each of those and most reckless of possible assertice. Seymonrand Blair will carry each of those States by a rousing majority. And the strong probability is that not only one-balf or one-third but nineteen twentieths of them will vote egainst Grant and Colfax in November. The Cleveland Plain Pealer states, that, by a preconcerted arrangement, twenty thousand Hebrew voters in Ohio staid at home last Tuesday, all of whom vill go to the polls in November, and vote against Grant. From this appreciable. It is buddyn unper the states of the property ber, and vose against Grant. From this appreciable. It is butdust in the balan reserve of a single class in a single State. e may judge the strength of our reserve the two classes in the three States. It plainly overwhelming. It is in itself will carry it. We are entirely confident that they will. Let them make all possidoom of Grant and Colfax.

But the relaxation of our adversaries efforts. Let not a nerve or since be re-everywhere, under the sense of security laxed for a moment. Let nerve and induced by the victory of Tnesday, is another powerful influence hostile to them. The Indiana Election. tione toutests of the Past

The contest for Governor in Indiana la so exceedingly close that it will probably require the efficial canvass to determine the result. It is likely that there are not 500 votes difference between Hendricks and Baker on a total poll of 375 000.

We have had in our listory a number of such close contests. In 1819 Marcus Morton, Deutecrat, was elected Governor of Massachusetts for a majority of one vote over Fidward tweet and exattering, the law requiring a majority over all to elect. The vote stood for

The result of the great content to Philastelphia on Tuenday last, is known to all our readers. Here, where the battis was fought and won, the means that were made by the radicals to cliest the people at their rights, are fully appreciated. Never in the history of politics, were such means before attempted by any party. They have no parallel in the records of crime and hump. The radical leaf-concentmenced by the organization of a gigantic system of colonization designed to fift the failot boxes with filegal votes. They then conceeded a base complication to the property of all kinds of curreges before the election and upon the eventful day—outrages which should make common humanity blush, and which were applauded and approved by means the contraction of the property of the proper I rom the towa Stele Register, Dell. In our Sunday's issue we mentioned the unsecountible disspearance of Mies Adla Crocker, and with it the information that some of her wearing apparel had been found on the river's bank Saturday evening, two miles above town, pointing to the feartuil anspicion that the missing girl had hurled herselt in a enicide's grave to the less Moines. Sunday morning the river was dredged immediately by the spot where the clothing was found, and where her trecks led to the water's edge. The body was found only some fitteen or twenty feet away from the place of entering the etream; and although it had laid in the stream (wo days and two nights, it was perfectly free from blemish or bloat, the face natural, and nothing but one broken finger indicating the violent death. The corpse was taken to the desolate home of her mother, and the funeral look place at 10 o'cicck yesterday, attended by a large train of truly sympathizing friends.

There is of course an absorbing anxisty to know the cause of this sad case or seitmurder. We can give no explanation it is one of the unlathomable mysteries about and over which is thrown a veil that the proper of the state of read To. upon the eventful day—outrages which should make common humanity blush, end which were appleuded and approved by men who pretend to respectability, and claim to occupy decent positions in society. Yet in the face of all these enormous political swindles, the Democracy of Philadelphia gloriously triumphed and carried their whole city and county ticket by hand-some majorities. Had there been a feir-1 ection in this city—had the thousands of legal Democratic etectors distranchis ed been permitted to vote—had the voice of the sovereign people been heard as it sought to express itself at the ballothox—the majorities for the Democratic cendidates would have been four-fold what they were, end there would have been no vestige of corrupt radicaism left in our midst. This is clear and independently. They have made a record here which proves their invincibility, despite the most fearful obstacles. They have shown what men can do with are nerved to to the right, and who are recoved to achieve success at every cost save that of honor!

But their great duty has not various to the right, and who are recoved to achieve success at every cost save that of honor! human hand and human mind, when met by the to-sing, bulleting waves that roll their wrecking weight on the dark sea of despondency and despair, often have not the strength to breast the brank-ers, but in weakness and gloom bow to the atorn and go down to a fate and a grave which can be followed only by veere and prayers. For those of stronger will and greater courage to condenn those who quail and fall is utter uncharity. The taults of men and women, bowhat they may, go into the grave with them, and in the hands of the King who sita enthroned in eternity should we be willing to leave their follies and rest their judament.

Wilberforce, the Loglish abolitionist, with his one ides earnestly pursued, revalutionized the social order of a hamisphere—changed the drift of its commercs, and abook to its ioundation the grandest government of the world. Let us continuously email or inelgalificant when a mere thought, idea, theory of morals, as a seed in the earth, can grow into e power to move the world.

The earnest missioneries, blariyu and Brainerd; the earnest preschers, Wesly and Whitfield; the earnest workers, lloward and Nightingsie, show how earnestness makes lits a great passion, an inspiring nursose, an impressive and and astions seems to demand great personal sacrifice. In the Roman table of Curtius lesping into the yawning chasm to sawa his country, we read that spirit of Roman devotion. Some of us remember one prolonged bitterness! We feel no remores at the mistakes of the head; but a serious midwike in morals—in the heart—or a greversity of the conscience, leaves upon the character and soul an indellible blot, and battes in tears all cubsquent experience. A spot of crime npon the robes of the Stottish king "will not out," and its life-long burthen is greater than can be borne. The impurity of girlhood, like tracks in the enow that cannot be made smooth egsin, will never be forgotten. The world forgives a fool; but it never elther forgets or forgives a crime or a criminal. If you do nothing for this world, it may not bonor; but if you wrong it, it will ever pursue and punish you. It is a great thing to live—especially to live well—to have the visions of youth ripen into the moral satisfaction of age; to feel that if nothing great hes been doue; that if our fellow man has not been helped, he has not been hindered by our selfish urgencies of lile.

But life is more than illusive: It is also.

When strong religions passions inlensify sernestness, and the grace of God exital it into devotion, its achievements become sublimely sacred. The Prophets and Martyrs seem apart from the world and nearer God hy their sacrifices, privations, peris, and sufferings. Though sloned, sawn asnider, and burni, yet they seem in these very ordeals to extend the coloring of the Deity, and to wear the superscription of His love. Bullawoy's Phile. Nausca and want of appetite are always the indicia of indigestion. Stimulants wen't banish them. They are apperinduced by an unnatural condition of the stomach and the bowels, and the best known specific for these causes is Holloway's l'ills. No other medicine operates with the came directness on these important orgens. This is not a mera ed by the experience of fifty years. Sold
